Ilustración en portada N° 14

The renowned firm of London Booksellers MAGGS Bros has published a number of remarkable catalogues describing books of the greatest rarity. Illustrated with numerous facsimiles and illustrations accompanied by excellent annotations, they are a valuable source of information to anyone interested in old books.

For fifteen years from 1925 onwards the catalogue entries were written by Sarah de Laredo, they remain a model of erudition, notably the catalogue of Books on Spain (q.v.)

“With a superb disregard of commercial value, Miss Laredo would do as long a note, amounting often to an essay, for a book worth two or three guineas as for one valued at several hundred.” (Catalogue of Maggs Catalogues. p.2)

The Paris branch of Maggs Bros was managed by Dr. Maurice Ettinghausen, who Palau records as being a regular visitor to Spain purchasing books to fill the catalogues published in Paris as well as London.

“The value of a dealer’s catalogue naturally depends of the fullness of his descriptions...” (Catalogue of Maggs Catalogues. p.2)

Many of the later catalogues with notes of Hispanic content
